

EasyCall Report

Today's Most Effective Call Report Preparation Software

DBI Financial Systems, Inc. has been providing banks with regulator-certified EasyCall Report Call Report preparation software for more than seventeen years. Today's EasyCall Report is the most effective and dependable software of its type available.

DBI works closely with the FFIEC to maintain seamless integration between EasyCall Report and the Central Data Repository (CDR). EasyCall Report communicates automatically with the FFIEC CDR as you prepare, validate and submit your Call Report.

Thousands of FFIEC edit checks are part of EasyCall Report. They are the very same edit checks used by the CDR after you submit your Call Report, so there are no surprises.

FFIEC Instructions are included both in their entirety and as context-sensitive help as you enter data.

The look and feel of EasyCall Report is familiar as the software you're used to, whether it's Sheshunoff (now Jack Henry), Call Reporter (now FIS) or FedReporter.

We're so sure you'll like EasyCall Report we'll send it to you as a trial offer.

The screenshot displays the 'EasyCall Report' software interface for FFIEC 041, dated December 31, 2011. The main window shows a 'Consolidated Report of Income for the period January 1, 2011 — December 31, 2011'. Below this, it states 'All Report of Income schedules are to be reported on a calendar year-to-date basis in thousands of dollars.' The primary section is 'Schedule RI—Income Statement', which is presented as a table with columns for 'RIAD' and 'BI M' (with a 'Thou' suffix). The table lists various income and expense categories, such as 'Interest Income', 'Interest and dividend income on securities', and 'Interest expense'. Specific values are highlighted in yellow, including 1,519 for 'Loans secured by 1-4 family residential properties' and 2,003 for 'Total interest and fee income on loans'. A sidebar on the right contains a small bar chart and a list of dates: Dec. 2011: 1,519; Sept. 2011: 1,147; June 2011: 794; March 2011: 405; Dec. 2010: 1,701.
